NOT FOR this valley!

EDITORIAL

By JOAN GREGORY

A small but significant triumph for human dignity and identity was scored on Tuesday when a group of Carmel Valley residents succeeded in securing from the board of supervisors the defeat of a five-digit house-numbering plan.

The rejected plan would have extended the outrageous county system from Scarlett Road to Las Tulares, an area of unique rural character, inhabited by staunch individuals whose common sense and readiness to stand behind it halted the unwelcome tide of alleged "progress."

In spite of meagre notice of the five-digit plan, Valleyites appeared in force to state their unwillingness to accept the inappropriate and ungainly extension of uniformity and de-personalization.

With simple, forthright and from-the-heart arguments, they presented their side as mere human beings. As such, they were irrefutable.

We existed as human beings long before we became fodder for computers, and county officials, like the rest of us, need to be jolted from the state of suspended hypnosis we have adopted in order to survive in a technological age.

While the unanimous nature of the board's vote and the moving speeches which preceded the official triumph indicate the board's wholehearted agreement with the protesters, it is worth noting that last month, after the planning commission approved the new system, a representative of the supervisors suggested that the board would have little choice but to rubber stamp a plan already approved for the county.

Indeed, many of the residents who spoke against the new system pleaded cautiously for a mere delay in action. But this was one of those rare occasions in public meetings when individuals were able to cut through the veneer of officialdom and overefficiency and touch others deeply with their honest expressions of concern. Outright defeat of the proposal was the only appropriate step once this level of communication was achieved, and the board rose to the occasion.

It was a fine day in Salinas for Carmel Valley when residents appeared and were received as nothing more than human beings and as nothing less. Their unswerving and proud recognition of this fact may have opened the door for sympathetic supervisors to throw out the five-digit plan from the entire county.

Schedule of public hearings

PLANNING COMMISSION meetings scheduled for Wednesday, May 8 at the county courthouse in Salinas:

Use permit applications; request by John Gardiner for permit allowing four tennis courts (including two new ones) at the Gardiner Tennis Ranch; request by Los Laureles Lodge, Inc. for the addition of a manager's cottage; request by Gary Eldridge for a boys' weightlifting gym, which would require an addition to an existing building in Bernadelli Square; all to be heard at 10:15 a.m.

Revised subdivision map: presentation by Arroyo Carmel, formerly Carmel Lago, of a revised subdivision map which involves changes from a two-story to a one-story building and a change in the visitor parking layout, with a slight decrease in the size of the visitor lot. The previous map for the subdivision located at the mouth of the Valley was drawn in 1971. The matter is scheduled for 9:45 a.m.

Town Crier

Trout season to open

The Department of Fish and Game has announced that trout season in the Central Coastal District, which includes Carmel Valley streams, lakes and rivers, will open on May 25.

During the month of May, waters in Los Padres Reservoir, Arroyo Seco Creek -- Lower and Big Sur River will be stocked with catchable trout.

Beacon House Art Auction

The committee for the upcoming 15th Annual Beacon House Art Benefit has been chosen and plans are underway. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Work Jr. of Pebble Beach will be hosts at a luncheon for volunteers on Wednesday, May 1.

The auction, featuring the works of the area's leading artists, has been the only fund-raising event for Beacon House, the Peninsula's alcoholic rehabilitation center. Residents of the house pay a moderate sum for room and board and care, but this does not cover the running expenses of the house. In order to keep the doors open, additional funds must be collected each year, and the Art Auction has been chosen as a means of providing the donor with something of beauty and value in thanks for his support.

This year's auction will be held Saturday, June 1 at the Elks' Club, Mar Vista Drive, Monterey. For ticket information and reservations phone 372-3179.

Arts & Crafts Fair

The Customhouse Plaza by Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey will be the site of a two-day Arts & Crafts Fair, sponsored by the Associated Students of Monterey Peninsula College, on Saturday and Sunday, May 4 and 5, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The fair is a benefit for the ASMPC, which sponsors projects such as student scholarships, loans, community services, speakers and films.

Items for sale will include stitchery, leather goods, metal, wax, wood and glass crafts as well as paintings and sculpture.

Renaissance music and dancing will be presented on Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. by the Balkan Dancers as an added attraction.

Local artists and craftsmen are invited to participate. A $3 fee for the first day, and $1.50 for the second day plus 10 per cent of gross sales for each day will be charged for non-student artisans.

Students who wish to participate will be charged $1 for the first day and 50 cents for the second, plus 10 per cent of gross sales for each day.

For further information, or reservations, contact the MPC Student Activities Office at 375-9821, exts. 326, 333, or 303.

YMCA discussion groups

Registration continues for two new discussion groups presented by the YMCA of the Monterey Peninsula, each designed to help clarify and improve family relations and personal living attitudes. Under the leadership of Pat Hahs, "Family Communication and Problem Solving" will be conducted during six sessions to be held Wednesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m., at St. James Episcopal Church, Monterey.

Design approvals; Green Meadows, Inc. will seek approval for an addition to the kitchen at Quail Lodge, and Gerald Petkus will request approval for the construction of a shed. No time is indicated for these items.

ZONING ADMINISTRATOR to meet Thursday, May 9 in the county courthouse in Salinas:

A public hearing will be held on a request for a use permit by William Shanklin for a guest house in Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Hahs is an experienced family counselor, formerly a participant in the Reality House and Project Aquarius programs.

Sessions on "Value Clarification" for both youth and adults will be held at 7:30 on Monday evenings, in Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Monterey, with Ester Feeny as leader. A graduate in psychology, with extensive experience in parent education, Mrs. Feeny will lead discussions relevant to problems of life-style, vocational choice, and decision-making.

Registration is also open for yoga classes and for a personality development discussion. Advance registration with YMCA, 373-1713, is strongly advised. Individual copies of the total program of YMCA may also be requested.

Preparations for Tularecito Carnival

In anticipation of the annual Tularecito School Carnival to be held May 11 at 11 a.m., collection for the rummage sale has begun.

Items which are packed in boxes or bags may be taken to Ralph Verde's Upholstery Shop and other items may go to the school office. Larger pieces should be stored at home until May 10.

All donations are welcome. Persons who have questions or can help with the sale are asked to call Veronica Lindsay at 659-4523.

Spring Flower Show

The Carmel Valley Garden Club will hold its 14th annual Spring Flower Show this weekend in the multipurpose room at Tularecito School.

According to Chairman Harry Ball and Vice Chairman Harold Maynard, this year's theme will be "The Age of Aquarius." Competition will be held on both junior and senior levels, and prizes will be offered in 32 divisions.

Brochures detailing rules are available at several Valley nurseries and businesses. For further information, call Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, president of the Carmel Valley Garden Association (659-2112).

Rabies Vaccination Clinic

The annual Rabies Vaccination Clinic for Carmel Valley is scheduled tomorrow, May 3 from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the fire station on Via Contenta. The cost of the vaccination is $2. Licenses for 1974-75 will also be issued.

Both vaccinations and licenses are required in Monterey County for all dogs four months or older. The license year runs from May 1 through April 30.

A current rabies vaccination certificate must be presented before a license can be issued. The certificate must be signed and stamped by a licensed veterinarian.

For further information, call the health department at 373-0111.

Registration for primary due May 5

The Monterey County Democratic Central Committee has issued a reminder to Carmel Valley residents that final registration date for the June primary is May 5. Voters may register during business hours at Hacienda Carmel -- Del Mesa Carmel.

Girl Scouts entertain at Carmel Convalescent Home

Carmel Senior Girl Scout Troop 2159 presented, with the help of Mrs. Joan Ingalls, director of recreation at Carmel Convalescent Home, an afternoon program of musical entertainment at the Home last Sunday.

Brownie Troop 2008 of Carmelo School, under the leadership of Mrs. Marilyn Sanders of Carmel Valley, sang "Teach the World to Sing" and danced the "Mexican Hat Dance." Participants from the troops were Renee Sanders, Amanda Godfrey, Cara Davey, Laura Horan, Kari Kunkle, Ginger Wescott, Shawn Roth, Holly Pease, Tone Grinde and Christine Winge. Renee Sanders and Christine Winge also played piano solos.

Mrs. Carol Palma and Mrs. Julie Hood led Brownie Troop 2121 of River School in a French song and dance, "Sur le Pont d'Avignon," and the Brownie Girl Scout "Smile Song." Girls taking part were Jennifer Banks, Hilary Faia, Gay Girard, Kathy Hood, Valerie Kirk, Alison Murray, Lisa Palma and Barbara Rowe. Hilary Faia, Kathy Hood, Alison Murray and Barbara Rowe performed ballet. Kathy Hood played the piano, Alison Murray performed on the zither and Jennifer Banks joined her sister, Rebecca, from Junior Troop 2069, in alto and soprano recorder duets.

Theresa Thomas, of Cadette Troop 2158, accompanied by her brother, Don, on the electric guitar, entertained with three violin solos; Susan Fuhs of Senior Troop 2159 played three piano selections; and Kara Kirk and Teresa Walker of Junior Troop 2069 each played piano pieces.

The program concluded with the following Scouts, leaders, and guests singing a variety of Girl Scout songs indicative of all phases of the Girl Scout program.

Valleyites secure defeat of house-numbering proposal

"WE ARE IN a situation where numbers are pressed upon us daily—social security numbers, zip codes, even telephone numbers, (all digits even though I like the ring of letters.) But when you get right down to the number of the house that you pay your mortgage on, that seems very personal, to me at least."

I am sensitive to the opposition expressed by people here today. I wouldn't want to add one more thorn to those pressed into our brows by those in authority. I am just a human being, and sometimes I have to stand up as a human being and say "no."

Supervisor Roger Poyner's words echoed loudly in the minds of the many Carmel Valley residents present at last Tuesday's board of supervisors meeting to protest the proposed five-digit house-numbering system for the area extending from Scarlett Road to the Las Tulares subdivision.

The board's unanimous decision to kill the proposal, after it had been approved last month by the county planning commission, was met with apparent surprise and deep appreciation by the many Carmel Valley residents attending, all of whom expressed opposition to the plan.

Drawn up by the planning department with the aid of Postmaster Joseph Fischer of the Carmel Valley Post Office, the defeated plan would have extended coverage of the county's five-digit house-numbering system beyond its present application to the area between Highway 1 and Scarlett Road.

Speaking at the meeting, Postmaster Fischer described the present house-numbering system as 'hodge-podge,' with non-sequential numbers, numbers mixed with letters, numbers with halves, and no numbers comprising the residential designations in the Valley. He cited resultant confusion and delay at the post office as well as telephone calls received by his office from non-Valley service agents who apparently experienced difficulty locating certain houses.

While several who spoke in protest of the new plan acknowledged that some modification of the existing plan might prove beneficial, deep concern was voiced over the alleged need to change all of the house numbers to a five-digit system.

Challenged Mrs. Loring Warner, "Even New York City doesn't have five-digit addresses!"

Edward Hubbard of La Rancheria suggested that individual problems which exist in the present system could be worked out on an individual basis, "rather than putting the area in a state of upheaval and expense."

A MEMORANDUM entitled "Your Right To Your House Address vs. The County of Monterey and the U.S. Post Office" was submitted to the board by Mrs. Connie Smith of Los Ranchitos. The document, which Mrs. Smith assured, represented the position of at least 19 of her neighbors, defined the grounds of opposition to the proposed change in the numbering system:

--Residents have not been properly informed of the proposed change to a five-digit system;

--Costs of the change would place an unfair burden on the residents involved;

--A change to the five-digit address system would create a change in the rural character of Carmel Valley;

--Residents have a vested interest in their present address, as given by former Postmaster Brandt.

In requesting that the board delay their decision-making on the new plan, Mrs. Smith pleaded, "Too much efficiency can make the recipient of such largesse miserable."

Mrs. Gertrude Warner of Robles del Rio submitted a 29-signature petition, organized with the aid of Jack Pooler, to the board for review. Residents of Carmel Valley who appeared to voice their protest of the five-digit plan included Martin Domke of Los Ranchitos, Mrs. Peggy Arnold of Paso Cresta, Mrs. William Zumach of Miramonte and Mrs. John Woolfenden of East Carmel Valley Road.

Stormed Mrs. Woolfenden, "The whole idea seems like a colossal boondoggle which will cost a great deal of money. We protest the efforts to put over this system on the people of Carmel Valley."

According to Supervisor Willard T. Branson, who represents the fifth district, several telephone calls, telegrams and mailgrams were received by the board in opposition to the change.

Responding to the protest, Postmaster Fischer, a resident of Salinas and postmaster of Carmel Valley since 1971, stated, "I have heard that the objections to the new plan are based on its being out of character with a rural area. I live in a rural area and I have had to adapt to the five-digit system. It hasn't changed the character of Toro Park," he added.

Questioned by Supervisor Arthur Atteridge as to why the proposed system would require five digits, Fischer stated flatly, "Because the county numbering system has five digits."

During board discussion which preceded the vote, Supervisor Warren Church recommended that consideration be given to removal of the five-digit system throughout the county.

Apparently moved by the demonstration of concern for community as well as personal identity on the part of Carmel Valley residents, Supervisor Branson concluded, "I think that the people of the area would rather wait two extra days to get a bill than have those heavy numbers laid on their backs."

Application for River Inn project withdrawn

Developer Thomas Schaal has withdrawn his application to build the 71-unit Carmel River Inn development that would have been constructed 200 feet west of Highway 1 on the north bank of the Carmel River.

Carl Hooper, a civil engineer for George Bestor & Associates, had prepared the environmental impact report and supplemental data on the River Inn project at Schaal's request. He was recently told of Schaal's decision and Hooper then informed the Monterey County Board of Supervisors before a scheduled public hearing on environmental factors which was to have been conducted last Friday.

"It had nothing to do with the success or failure of the application. It was a business decision," said Hooper. He also said he did not know if the owners of the River Inn property had influenced the decision to withdraw, and Hooper would not provide the names of the owners.

The Carmel River Inn development had been proposed by a group called "Carmel River Inn Developers," a partnership that has held title to the River Inn property since June 25, 1965.

This partnership includes Howard Buequet, Firmin Gryp, Myron Etienne Jr., and the Jade Tree Corp. (which is headed by Hank Fonseca). Fonseca established the corporation in 1958. The board of directors includes himself, Lee I. Fonseca, and Joseph Cook.

The "crux" of the opposition to the Carmel River Inn, Hooper said, concerned traffic problems that might have been aggravated by the River Inn project.

He said water supply is adequate, no flood problems would have been created, and that a geologist had determined no substantial earthquake hazard would have existed on the site proposed for the Carmel River Inn.

Hooper also said he had been willing to contest the allegations against the EIR materials, but that now the River Inn is a "dead issue."

The Carmel Planning Commission had voted 5-2 last Wednesday to recommend to the county planning commission that the supplemental EIR data submitted by Hooper be rejected as "inadequate and incomplete."

The commission also suggested in a letter to the county that an independent EIR be prepared by contract or by the county.

Commissioners Edward

Neroda and Robert Evans agreed the Carmel River Inn development probably should not be constructed until questions about the EIR data are resolved, but they voted against making that recommendation to the county. They said several findings in the Land Use Committee report involved judgments that were too technical and on which the commission was not equipped to recommend, especially regarding the possibility of earthquake damage to the Carmel River Inn site.

The following findings were listed in the Land Use Committee report after considering the draft EIR submitted by Hooper:

--"The draft environmental report was written by the project engineer.

--"The draft contained supplemental data to the previously considered environmental impact report that was made comment on by the planning commission on May 31, 1973.

--"A letter is now contained in the report from the Water Quality Control Board, Monterey-Santa Cruz County Unified Air Pollution Control Board, Carmel Sanitary District, State Division of Highways, Monterey County Road Department and the State Department of Fish and Game.

--"Each letter found erroneous or misleading statements in the text of the EIR.

--"The supplemental data for the EIR covered only open space, traffic and sewage.

--"Letters have still not been received from the water company on providing water for the site.

--"Flooding has been only considered on the aspect of the site itself and not on the effect flooding will have on the adjacent properties should fill be placed on this site.

--"The report did not take into consideration all aspects of the geology in relationship to earthquakes. The property consists of basically alluvial soils which are subject to creating severe ground shaking and possible liquefaction. No consideration was given to the effect of tsunamis.

--"Soil erosion was not taken fully into consideration in the report. Fill placed adjacent to the river could eventually erode into the river, changing currents.

--"Supplemental data did not cover all of the comments brought forth from the letters of comment or from the public hearing previously held to consider the EIR."

Assessor addresses quarterly CVPOA meeting

County Assessor Donald P. Stewart delivered an explanation of the function of his office and the rudiments of property assessment during the quarterly meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners' Association at the Hacienda Carmel last week.

"The job of the assessor is to ensure that all assessable property is on the rolls and that it is fairly and equitably assessed. It has nothing to do with determination of the amount of local taxes collected," he stressed at the outset of the meeting.

Stewart, who has been county assessor for 16 years, stated that assessed values in Monterey County, as well as throughout the nation, have been rising steadily in recent years, with total assessments of property in Monterey County up 17 per cent last year from $661 million to $774 million. Due to the even more dramatic increase in property values, however, the assessment ratio actually dropped by one per cent last year.

Market value of property on the Peninsula will probably continue to increase, Stewart indicated, possibly jumping as much as 25 per cent higher next year. Homeowners' exemptions would be likely to increase again next year to cushion the blow.

Property assessments in the county are currently made on a ratio of 25 per cent of market value. More than 88,000 individual parcels of property, including private residential lands and buildings on them, commercial property, airplanes, wells and quarries are on the county's assessment rolls. Tax exemptions include those given for property owned by federal, state, county and municipal governments (amounting to 30 per cent of the total land in the county), for retirement homes, such as Carmel Valley Manor, and for growing crops, with partial exemptions awarded for property owned by religious and charitable groups. Exemptions of taxable properties amount to just under $15 million in assessed value while the total assessed value of Monterey County is $881.5 million.

The practice of assessing property based on its "highest and best use" was questioned by board member Al Eisner. "The highest and best use, in the public interest, of large tracts of land, such as the Odello Ranch and the airport strip may not involve development," he suggested.

Stewart indicated that a system providing for one yardstick to be used in determining assessments for special areas endangered by urbanization and a separate yardstick for areas not in immediate danger, might prove more satisfactory. He agreed with another member of the audience who expressed disagreement with the recent appraisal of the Odello Ranch.

"I have never felt that the amount at which the ranch was appraised was appropriate. I would have been happier if a few separate appraisals had been provided," he stated.

Referring to Stewart's remarks that growing crops were exempt from taxation, CVPOA President Bill Brown asked what policies were followed by the county assessor in regard to the thousands of acres of vineyards located in southern Monterey County. Somewhat surprisingly, Stewart stated that only the grapes themselves are exempt from taxation as growing crops; the vines are exempt for the first three years only; and all other property, including land, fences, irrigation equipment, etc. are taxable.

The question of whether the federal government should become involved in local property taxes and assessment will be discussed in hearings to be held on the West Coast in the near future, Stewart said. This matter has recently been debated in the U.S. Senate.

Fair board prepares

Monterey County Fair Board members recently inspected a design to turn Pattee Arena into an inviting setting for a "fair within a fair" during the 1974 County Fair, set for July 23-28.

The Fair is being held before the National Horse Show this year, with the latter set for August 5-10, also at the Fairgrounds in Monterey.

All youth groups and schools in the county have been invited to participate in the arena phase of the fair. Overall theme for the event this year will be "Youth." Static exhibits and demonstrations are both expected to be part of the arena display.

All of the fair concession space and exhibit space has been reserved, and there is currently a waiting list for both in case of late cancellations.

The board, headed by Monterey attorney Les Dixon, has recently reviewed the five-year building program plans which are to be submitted to the state on May 15. Included are proposals for a $40,000 crafts building, for new rest rooms in the Horse Show paddock area, and for roofing of Pattee Arena to be financed through a special act of the legislature.

ALTHOUGH THE sun is apt to play hide-and-go-seek with all the coastal towns, it can almost always be found beaming unabashedly in Carmel Valley.

Only one road traverses the Valley's 40-mile length so it is difficult for even a tourist to lose his way for long. Geographically, of course, the Valley begins at the mouth of the Carmel River, which flows or trickles, depending on the season, into a lagoon which is a bird sanctuary separated usually by a sandbar from Carmel Bay.

Visible from the Highway One junction are the large Rancho Shopping Center and the new Junior High School, but the next two miles remain as undisturbed farmland; hence many tourists never realize that a thriving and uncommonly pleasant small community is tucked away beyond.

More than a dozen resorts of varying size and elegance are grouped about Carmel Valley Village or within a few miles of it, offering everything from campsites for the hardy to accommodations so exclusive that they are "advertised" only in Herb Caen's daily newspaper column.

LAST WEEK the Carmel Unified School

District board of education decided to improve the education program by moving the ninth grade to the high school and that best use of existing facilities, after Sunset School is turned over to the City of Carmel, will be to use the junior high school for fifth through eighth grade instruction.

This reorganization into a K-4 grade "neighborhood" elementary, 5-8 grade central intermediate and four-year high school program is to be effected by September 1965, the date the district must vacate Sunset, the board decided.

For a time last week, the board considered moving to the junior high school site and converting the present high school into an intermediate facility. Costs of such a move were equal to converting the junior high into an intermediate school and would be approximately $200,000 Superintendent Medill Bair told the board.

CARMEL VALLEY Property Owners Association last Thursday voted overwhelmingly to adopt a plan whereby Carmel Valley Road, widened eventually to four lanes in the Village area, would use the existing two-lane street roadbed for one-way eastbound traffic. Westbound cars would travel a new one-way two-lane street through Delfino Place, skirting the Village on its northern edge and passing through the present Washing Well building, going behind the bank and other existing stores.

In so doing, the more than 50 members present rejected the proposal of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce that an eventual four-lane Carmel Valley Road should by-pass the shopping district entirely via a northerly route using the existing Carmel Valley airstrip.

DR. ED MARCUCCI gave the Comsat people a special remembrance on the occasion of the dedication of the "Earth Station" last Friday.

At a luncheon held at the Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club, Marcucci gave Dr. Joseph V. Charyk, president of Communications Satellite Corp., a small can of fresh, clean Carmel Valley air.

As chairman of the County Planning Commission, Marcucci said he couldn't be happier with the advent of Comsat. It is a fine new industry that pollutes absolutely nothing.

LITTLE OLD LADY librarians who presided over the hallowed halls of silence must now take a backseat with the new look that has come to Monterey County's five leading libraries. Tied together with teletype service and special phone lines, instant library service is close at hand with a 24-hour availability on books now.

One library card is all that is needed to check out a book at any of the county libraries, and one patron even brags of being able to use his driver's license when he lost his card.

Books may be borrowed from one library in the system and returned to another.

ALTHOUGH THE outcome was all but predestined, Carl Hooper of George Bestor and Associates waged a vigorous defense of a 462-unit subdivision proposed for mid-Valley before directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association last night.

During a free-wheeling discussion that lasted more than an hour, Hooper and the CVPOA board found one area of agreement, namely that the county should exercise more control over minor subdivisions (four lots or less), which now receive little or no public attention.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

AMERICAN RED CROSS volunteer canteen workers like Mrs. Richard (Charlity) Crane (left) and Mrs. William (Mary) Ijams, Jr. (right) make the Blood Drawing such a successful (and pleasant) occasion. Charity and Mary are among the wives and daughters of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department who will be greeting and serving donors on May 16 during the Blood Drawing at the C.V. Community Center on Ford Road from 3 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. Donors will receive one ticket to Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, the July production at the Forest Theater. Mrs. Thomas (Marjorie) McKiernon, 659-2833, may be contacted for appointments or further information. Photo by Jody Cooper.

Merry month of May

VALLEYITES WILL find something for everyone on the May calendar which lists numerous and varied events:

MAY 2: C.U.S.D. Choral Music Festival, C.H.S. gym, 7:30 p.m.

MAY 3: Amtrak trip to San Francisco for C.U.S.D. students.

MAY 3, 4, 5: "Great Barter" at Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

MAY 4 & 5: 14th annual Flower Show, sponsored by the C.V. Garden Association at Tularcitos School.

MAY 8: M.P.V.S. 21st annual Home and Garden Tour

MAY 11: Tularcitos Parents Club sponsored Carnival, "Ship Wreck Island," beginning with 11:30 a.m. parade led by Fort Ord Band.

MAY 16: Blood drawing at C.V.C.Y.C. on Ford Road.

MAY 16: C.U.S.D. Instrumental Music Festival, C.H.S. gym, 7:30 p.m.

MAY 18: Champagne Silent Auction, a C.V. Community Youth Center benefit at White Oaks Theater, 7-10 p.m.

MAY 23: C.H.S. Spring Music Festival, gym, 7:30 p.m.

MAY 27: Family Potluck at C.V. Community Youth Center with demonstration by Gloria Pieretti, P.G.&E. home economist.

Is your event missing from the list? Sorry. Please call 659-2468, and we will be happy to add it next week.

St. Dunstan's benefit

Jars of marmalade with smiley faces on the lids made by Marion Shaur were a delightful addition to both the table prizes and the party theme of "yellow" at the St. Dunstan's benefit bridge & canasta party. Forsythia, nut cups, napkins and tallies all followed the cheery spring theme at the Lupine Lane home of Carlyle Mothersill, who was assisted with hostess duties by Charlotte Spangler, Flo Holm and Kathryn Walker.

Winners of table prizes included Esther Del Monte, Natalie Raymond, Doretha Macklinburg, Novella Nicholson, Kathy Binford, Muriel Dawson, Billie Mans, Nellie Mirani, Natalie Compas and Edna Williams.

Monkey pod bowls and trays were presented to bridge highs Doretha Macklinburg and Natalie Raymond, and to canasta highs Natalie Compas and Nellie Mirani.

"Lei Day," May 29, will be the next party at the Cypress Lane home of Muriel Dawson, with Gretchen Glod as co-hostess. Kathryn Walker invites your reservations at 659-2280.

'Spring' party for Chapel Guild

Favors made before hand by Jean Stekly, who was hospitalized the day of the party, were presented as table prizes to the ladies attending the April benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored by the Guild of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. "Spring" was the theme of the decor used at Fellowship Hall by hostess Millie Krijcir and co-hostess Vera Bautz.

Paperback books covered attractively with felt were awarded as canasta table prizes to Bertha Starkweather, Rosa Clark, Nellie Mirani, Mary Walls and Speedy Farr.

Winners at bridge tables included Barbara Robbins, Billie Mans, Natalie Raymond, Martha Huff, Corrine Lindsley, Kathaleen Wood, and Sara Oppenheimer.

Nellie Mirani is the hostess for May. Reservations may be made by calling Vera Bautz at 659-2951.

Boar's head wanted!

Is there a boar's head in your attic? Should you have a mounted trophy that does not fit with your decor, would you consider donating it (or at least loaning it on May 18 for the Champagne Auction) to the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center?

Because the wild boar is uniquely symbolic of Carmel Valley, the CVCYC board of directors recently selected it as the official Center emblem, and the colors orange and green as their official colors.

Hoping to have a boar's head to display and use at the Center on all "state" occasions, the board members began their search, contacting first the Stirrup Cup, where they had heard there was to be some redecorating. Western desperados, they learned, had been there just a few days before and in a daring daylight hog-napping had taken the head, tusks and all, right off the wall!

The next lead was to an auto accident on "Bourbon Curve" where an unidentified cowboy was reportedly standing beside a pickup truck holding a boar's head and hide. Finding this, too, a dead end (no pun intended) the search then turned to the report of a cowboy standing in front of the Porter Marquard Real Estate office balancing a wild boar head on the real estate sign.

Since cowboys and boars' heads seem to disappear with the rapidity of a rainbow over the Santa Lucias, we appeal to you -- our readers -- and assure you that tender loving care will be given to any wild boar entrusted to us.

We'll happily come round to pick it up if you'll phone 659-2468.

Wildcats top Little League

The Buckeye Wildcats held first place at the end of the first week of play of the 1974 Carmel Valley Little League season. Following were the Volunteers, in second place; the Lions in third; and the Tigers and Indians tied for fourth place.

Wildcat player Mike Matson was named 'hero of the month' when he hit the first home run of the season and collected the handsome poster, previously displayed in the snack bar.

Two other home runs were recorded later in the week by Farm Team players Camelo Panetta of the Toros and Chris Fosso of the Pirates.

Major League Scores

VOLUNTEERS - 13	TIGERS - 5
WILDCATS - 11	INDIANS - 4
LIONS - 8	INDIANS - 6
WILDCATS - 17	VOLUNTEERS - 1
WILDCATS - 11	TIGERS - 5
VOLUNTEERS - 3	LIONS - 1

Coaches, managers and officials of the C.V.L.L. met on Saturday to draft Farm Team players to the five Major Teams all of which are now playing with full 12-man capacity squads.

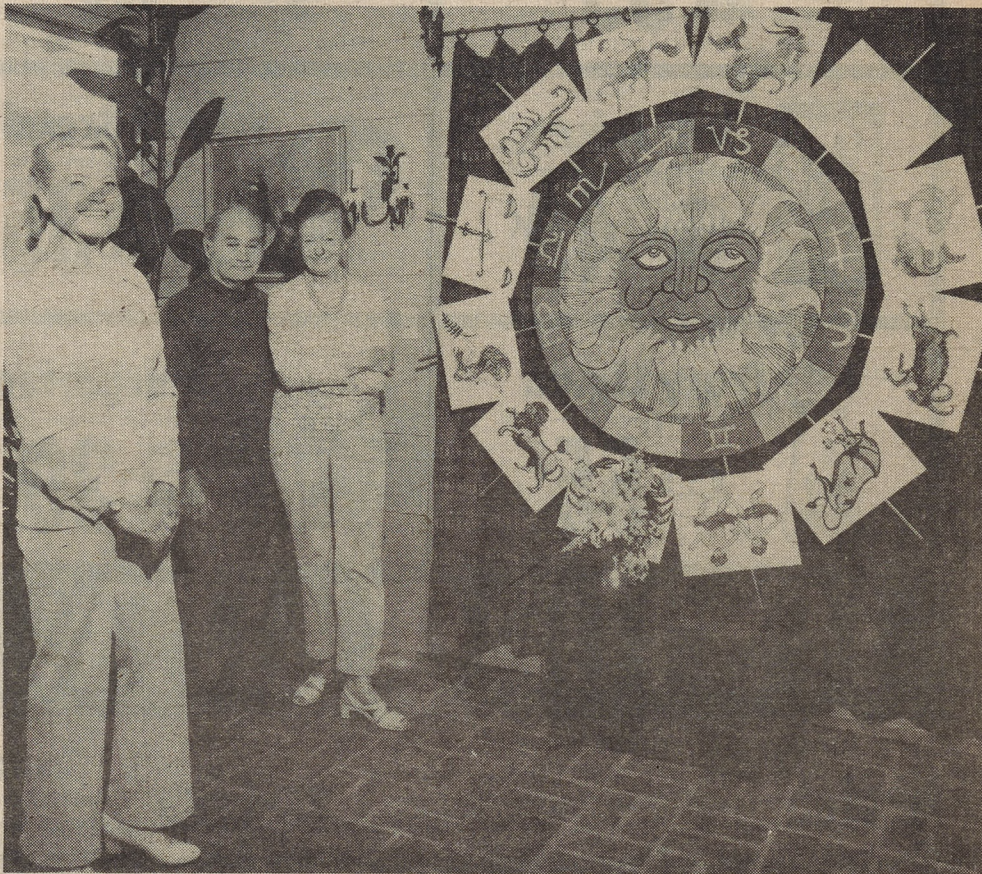

Picked up in the draft were Indians Dick Kirk and Donald Ascarate; Lions Curtice and Mike Vout; Tigers John Testa, Chris Fosso, and Ron Alexander; and Volunteer Kurt Buche.

Luncheon set for Chapel Guild

THE CARMEL VALLEY Community Chapel Guild will have a Potluck Salad Luncheon preceding its regular meeting on Wednesday, May 8, at 12:15 p.m. in Fellowship Hall on Village Drive.

Mrs. Thomas McKiernon will be chairman of the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. Roland Brandly, Mrs. David Hoisington, Mrs. Thomas Verga and Mrs. Frieda Manderville.

Mrs. Richard (Mary Kaye) King will be the guest speaker and will give an illustrated talk on Singapore and the events

THE 14TH ANNUAL Flower Show sponsored by the Carmel Valley Garden Association will be held this weekend in the Multipurpose Room at Tularcitos School. in the King family's three years there. Mr. and Mrs. King were Carmel Valley residents for two years before going to Singapore, and their youngest son, Matthew, was born while they lived in the Valley.

Mr. King, an engineer for Litton Industries, was transferred in 1970 to work on a Naval project for the Singapore government.

Mrs. King will show slides and describe the ways of life in Singapore, a multi-racial city, showing the various homes, shops and stores, and peoples gathered there. She will also show how the King family lived during their stay in the city.

At present they are living in Carmel but hope to return to their Miramonte home in the Valley before long.

This promises to be an interesting program and members are invited to bring guests. Newcomers to Carmel Valley are especially invited to come and get acquainted.

Boronda 4-H Club

According to Boronda 4-H Club reporter Pam Oross, "The countywide Livestock Judging Contest awarded our Club 4th place. Members of the team were Emily White, Liz Warner and Stacy Hicks. Others participating were Gordon White, Tricia Collins, Lori George and Pam Oross.

Buckeye 4-H Club participants were Ashley Swanson, Hillary Yuma, Kim Berry and Kathy and Susan Lockwood. They judged dairy cows, steers, swine, sheep, and dairy goats.

Garden Association to meet May 9

The Carmel Valley Garden Association has invited Ms. Jane Wenzler to be the guest speaker at their May meeting scheduled for Thursday, the 9th, at 8 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room at Tularcitos School. "The Human Touch With Living House Plants" is Ms. Wenzler's topic. The public is invited to enjoy the program and refreshments following.

Champagne Silent Auction

A fabulous array of paintings, art objects, dinners, trips and items totalling $4,000 to date, await those planning to attend Carmel Valley Community Youth Center's annual benefit, "The Champagne Silent Auction."

Scheduled for Saturday, May 18, the event will be held at Hidden Valley (formerly White Oaks) Theater from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. Donations are $3 per person with all proceeds earmarked for operational expenses at the Valley's favorite gathering spot, the CVCYC.

The non-profit tax-exempt corporation, founded largely by donations, opened 20 years ago, and has been used rent-free by all Valley youth groups, rented to nearly all Valley adult groups, and used to house classes ranging from gun safety to cooking.

The complex, made up of the Center building, pool, bath house, park and surrounding area for picnicking and parking, is managed by a board of directors charged with operational, social and fund-raising functions.

In addition to monthly maintenance, there is a mortgage payment handled by the Center to finance the building of the pool, completed in 1964 and bath house, completed in 1966. These facilities are owned by the Center and operated through a lease agreement with the Carmel Unified School District. Literally hundreds of youngsters have been taught swimming, diving, and life saving during summer swim classes there. Recreational swimming is held afternoons and some evenings for individuals and families as well as a six-week physical education class during the spring and fall for Tularcitos students.

High school students raise funds in Volley-thon

As weary participants returned home to creep quietly to their beds following 33 hours of continuous play last weekend, all participants in Carmel High School's Volley-thon were satisfied with the results of their effort: a total of $710.27 secured in pledges to be used for volleyball trophies, awards, equipment and for support of the girls' interscholastic sports program.

Spurred by the support of sponsors whose pledges ranged from 1 cent to 75 cents per hour of supervised play, 48 C.H.S. volleyball team players and season participants rotated to sustain lively games, accumulating a total of 2,559 hard-won points.

Under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Crockett of Carmel Valley, director of the girls' interscholastic athletic program, an average of two dozen students remained in the first overnight coed event in the history of the school. Many players brought sleeping bags with hopes of napping when substitutions permitted. Despite a strong showing on the part of eligible players, several put in long hours at the courts.

Susan Caswell of Carmel Valley sustained the longest individual effort, totaling 22 hours and 35 minutes, while Margaret Glaser and Jonetta Raines, both of Carmel, were active for 20 hours and 20 minutes and for 20 hours, respectively. Valleyite Kim Matthews served, spiked and set-up for 16 hours and 40 minutes. Seated at the scoring table for 31 hours was Connie Lorenz of Carmel Valley, who handled all administrative work for the Volley-thon benefit.

As participants demonstrated skillful team play and strategy in their competitive games, rock music blared in the background, providing a means of staying awake as well as entertainment. Food was provided on the premises, and an occasional ice cream cone provided a lift in spirits during indoor play on a warm Saturday.

A critical period hit at about 11 a.m. Saturday when substitutes were needed, but none of those nestled in their sleeping bags seemed able to rally. Luckily the group managed, and by 11:30 p.m. seemed to have gotten a second wind, carrying on enthusiastically until midnight.

Funds raised by the event are badly needed, according to Mrs. Crockett. "We have no budget remaining for the year for the girls' interscholastic athletic program," she stated.

"About a year ago, we entered an explosion in girls' athletic activity, and we need to develop our program to meet the rapidly growing demand. Unfortunately, we can't do it if we haven't got the money. That's how the idea for the Volley-thon originated."

Volleyball has grown to become one of Carmel High School's strongest interscholastic sports, particularly among the girls' teams. The C.H.S. junior team currently holds the Monterey Peninsula Championship title; the girls' varsity team ranks number one on the Peninsula; the girls' junior varsity team, undefeated all season, are Peninsula champs; and the second string junior varsity team has a 6-1 record. In all, 57 students from the high school are active in interscholastic team play.

Hopefully, the acquisition of equipment, trophies and awards, made possible by the Volley-thon, will inspire increased enjoyment and skill for the dedicated volleyball players at Carmel High School.

WHY NUCLEAR POWER IS THE SOLUTION TO THE ENERGY PROBLEM.

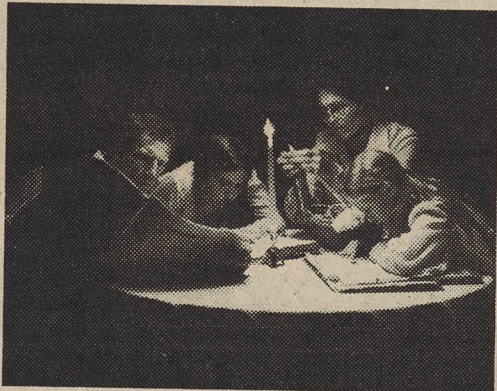

Thousands of men work and live safely on nuclear-powered subs.

The electric energy problem here in California is simply a matter of oil and natural gas shortages. The problem is going to plague us for some time to come, unless other forms of energy are used. The solution is to use energy wisely and to build more nuclear power plants. Nuclear plants are safe. They are practical. They are economical. They are environmentally clean. But they take time to build—about ten years.

There's no mystery about nuclear power plants. There are 44 operating in the United States; more than that among other nations of the world. There are more than 100 nuclear-powered ships in the U.S. Navy; even more in other fleets. The nuclear industry has hundreds of reactor years of successful operating experience. The technology is proven.

Some people have questions about nuclear power. Some people give incorrect answers to those questions.

We at PG&E have had long experience with nuclear plants. We believe firmly in them. So do other utilities, world-wide, both government-owned and investor-owned. And so does the overwhelming majority of the scientific community.

Brownouts and blackouts can happen here.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE

At present most of PG&E's steam-electric power plants burn scarce and very expensive low-sulfur oil to generate electricity. We will have to buy about 20 million barrels this year and 35 million next year to meet our customers' electric energy needs. Our two-unit Diablo Canyon Nuclear Power Plant, now under construction in San Luis Obispo County, will displace a need for an additional 24 million barrels of oil every year in the future.

Delays in construction schedules of these and other nuclear units—delays, for a variety of reasons, over which utilities generally have little control—have had much to do with bringing about today's electric energy problems in California.

While nuclear power plants cannot solve the problem immediately, they can in time. As more come into service, they will free up large amounts of oil, significantly alleviating the aggravating long-range fuel shortage—gasoline and all.

NUCLEAR POWER AND SAFETY

The safety record of commercial nuclear power plants is unmatched in industrial history. Safety systems and their back-up systems function efficiently. There have been no nuclear-caused deaths. Not even a significant injury. (For comparison, about 54,000 Americans are killed every year in auto accidents; 3,000 die choking on food; 160 are killed by lightning.)

Actually, fissionable nuclear fuel for power plants is very dilute—so dilute that it's impossible to create an atomic explosion in a nuclear reactor.

With all the safeguards that are built into each nuclear power plant, the chance of a major accident is about one in a million.

NUCLEAR WASTE. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT?

When nuclear fuel is used, nuclear waste is created. But more than 95 per cent of the original fuel is recycled for re-use. The remaining waste is small—so small that such waste from a large nuclear unit operating for 30 years could be contained in a space no larger than a two-car garage. The waste is radioactive; but is treated as such. Very carefully. Safety first.

Used fuel is sealed in heavily-shielded, leak-tight casks and shipped to a facility which specializes in nuclear fuel re-processing. Every safety precaution is taken to insure that no leakage occurs. Shipping and handling are carried out under strict regulations of the AEC and the U.S. Department of Transportation. After processing, the residual waste will be solidified and placed in secure, long-term storage under rigid government control.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS AND MARINE LIFE

Some people have voiced concern because some power plants discharge warm water back into natural water bodies. These power plants—whether nuclear or fossil-fueled—use cooling water in steam condensers. In a nuclear plant the cooling water is only about 19° warmer when returned to its source, and otherwise is harmless. Where the water source is large enough and cold enough to receive and assimilate it, like the Pacific Ocean, it has no significant adverse effect on marine life. The only appreciable change is that in the immediate water discharge area the balance between warm water species and cold water species of marine life may shift in favor of those liking warmer water. In fact, after 24 years of scientific study and many more years of operating experience, it is clearly established that marine life near PG&E power plants tends to be more plentiful than it was originally.

Nine nuclear pellets produce as much energy as 30 barrels of oil.

NUCLEAR POWER—CLEAN, ECONOMICAL

For both environmental and economic reasons, nuclear power is the solution to the electrical energy problem.

Most hydroelectric power resources are already developed. Fossil-fueled steam electric plants consume scarce and increasingly costly oil and natural gas. Barring technological breakthroughs, geothermal energy can meet only a small part of future power needs. Fusion power is decades away. And other possible sources of energy, such as solar, tidal and wind power, are in experimental stages of development, and the latter two may never become practical for large-scale use. Coal can supply some help in California over the short run. But nuclear energy is the power source which has arrived.

Nuclear power is economical. For example, the electricity produced at PG&E's Humboldt Bay Nuclear Power Plant for $2.00 would cost $17.20 at a plant burning low-sulfur oil, at today's fuel prices.

Moreover, nuclear power generation is clean. Unlike burned fuels, it releases no combustion products into the environment.

NUCLEAR POWER AND INSURANCE

Some people say that private insurance companies won't cover a nuclear power plant. That's false. Private companies provide $110 million worth of liability insurance for each nuclear power reactor location. There have been no claims against nuclear power reactors. In fact, the insurance companies have been refunding part of the premiums paid by the utilities.

In addition, utilities pay the federal government for indemnity insurance coverage of $450 million for each reactor location.

The federal indemnity program was created by Congress in 1957 (Price-Anderson Act) to help encourage development of a nuclear power industry in the U.S. It has been good business for the taxpayers. And it gives the public greater protection than separate homeowner insurance policies could provide. That's one of the reasons why your homeowner policies have a nuclear exclusion clause. The government has collected millions in indemnity payments from utilities—about $90,000 a year per large reactor—and has never paid out one cent. No claim has ever been filed.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST

One of the big PG&E nuclear units at Diablo Canyon is planned for service next year, and the other unit in 1976. But it will take about ten years to build additional nuclear capacity—including the time it takes to find and acquire suitable sites and obtain clearances and approvals from more than 30 governmental and public agencies.

Every year of delay exposes all of us to shortages and higher rates, and further drains our diminishing fossil fuel resources.

The energy problem simply must be solved, and nuclear power will go a long way toward solving it. Electrical energy is essential to everybody, and especially to the young people who will be forming families and needing jobs. We don't intend to relax in our efforts to provide adequate and reliable service for all our customers in the future, just as we have provided it in the past. You can help now by conserving energy at home and on the job.

If you or anyone you know would like more information on nuclear power, PG&E will be pleased to provide it. Just write: PG&E Nuclear Information, 77 Beale Street, San Francisco, California 94106.

Residential care facility now under construction

Noise from heavy equipment engaged in demolition last weekend at the site of RSVP at Rippling River in Carmel Valley announced the first phase of construction of the $2.1 million residential complex designed for the adult physically impaired.

Removal of old buildings on the site, located on Carmel Valley Road just west of the Village, should be completed shortly, according to the builders, H.A. Ekelin & Associates of Salinas. The facility is expected to accept its first tenants in November of 1974.

Designed specifically for the adult physically impaired and the elderly who have need of room, board and care in a congregate living situation, RSVP will be the first complex of its kind in the United States.

According to Mrs. Elaine Castro, RSVP administrator, the concept of the home for the adult physically impaired originated officially in 1962, when a group of handicapped people and their friends and relatives on the Monterey Peninsula formed to help themselves and others enjoy as many of the advantages of 'normal' living as the law and community would allow.

Initially engaged in efforts to establish parking permits for handicaps through local police departments and to obtain street ramps at curbs for wheel chairs, the group called itself "Rehabilitation Services & Volunteers of the Peninsula."

After several years, during which the group shortened its name to the symbolic 'RSVP,' the idea of a rehabilitation residential facility evolved, and after a tremendous struggle to realize their goal, supporters of the project gathered both F.H.A. and H.V.D. approval as well as having secured adequate funds to launch the non-profit operation.

RSVP is designed to facilitate the rehabilitation of each resident to his or her fullest capacity, providing some degree of care and supervision according to individual needs. Included in the plans are a tennis court, swimming pool, library and shuffleboard court as well as living and dining areas.

Supervisors grant variance in Camp Steffani

An appeal of a decision by Zoning Administrator Bob Slimmon to deny a variance which would permit the combining of three lots into two in Camp Carmel, known popularly as Camp Steffani, was granted by the board of supervisors during their regular meeting last Tuesday.

The board voted approval of the variance following testimony by Director of Environmental Health Walter Wong, who indicated that development of the property into anything other than one dwelling unit would be unsafe and unhealthy due to the need for adequate space for a septic tank facility.

According to Chairman Willard Branson, the board voted its approval of the variance based on respect for property rights and with confidence that proper health standards would be maintained by the county health department, which must grant its approval before any construction on the site can legally occur.

The variance request was submitted by Natural Development of Carmel Valley, which stated before the board its plans to eventually build two two-bedroom houses on each of the two newly divided sites.

Stated Slimmon, "Two building sites would not be usable from a health standpoint since there would not be area available for septic tank disposal."

Health Director Wong elaborated, "The proposal calls for the division of lots into an average size of 6,900 square feet, roughly 55 feet wide by 153 feet long, approximately 40 per cent of which is straight uphill. You just can't fit proper septic tank facilities into the area you have to work with." Wong had recommended that the three lots be combined into one.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Raines, a property owner in Camp Steffani and John Carolin, who owns a cabin located just across the road from the site under consideration, expressed their opposition to the requested variance and to anticipated development at the site, citing a resultant increase in traffic and a change in the character of the predominantly summer cabin area.

Dennis Powell of Carmel Valley presented the request by Natural Development for the variance.

Camp Steffani, officially named Camp Carmel, was originally subdivided in 1927 as a campsite area. A cabin with a 120-foot frontage had existed on the three-lot site in question for roughly 50 years prior to being torn down.

Permits granted for theaters and bank

Zoning permits were granted last Thursday to Carmel Properties Company for twin theaters and a bank to be located at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

While the City of Carmel recommended approval of the project through a letter sent to Zoning Administrator Bob Slimmon, Bill Brown, president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association appeared to protest what he considered inadequate screening for the parking area of the proposed Wells Fargo Bank to be located on Rio Road.

Bloodmobile to visit Valley

There will be an American Red Cross Bloodmobile in the Community Center, Carmel Valley, Thursday, May 16 from 3 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.

As doctors and nurses have explained, when you give blood it only takes about an hour of your time, although the actual blood donation takes less than 10 minutes. After answering a few questions, you'll have your temperature and blood pressure taken, plus a pinprick sample to determine the iron content in your blood. Then you lie down and on your way to the refreshment tables where a volunteer will give you fruit juice, coffee, and cookies or cake.

And don't forget, don't take any pills prior to going to give blood, and eat sensibly prior to reporting at the Center. If there are any questions, phone Marjorie at 659-2833 or 624-6921.

During the environmental hearing on these developments held April 11, when a determination was made that there would be no significant environmental effects resulting from the projects, Brown had appeared in favor of approval for the bank and in opposition of approval for the theaters.

Zoning Administrator Slimmon also approved issuance of a use permit for an art gallery and classes to be conducted by Stephen Skerce, subject to the following conditions:

- sale of art work be conducted only on an occasional basis;
- classes be limited to a maximum of eight classes;
- classes be limited to two classes per week, Monday through Friday, 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. and one evening per week, Monday through Friday, 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.;
- one sign, not to exceed a maximum of six square feet be erected on-site;
- new access on the southerly portion of the property be constructed and used for the gallery and classes;
- no trees be removed;
- parking be provided.

Due to the location of the barn in which Skerce plans to conduct his gallery and classes on a one-acre site in a residential district, some opposition to the project was raised by nearby residents during the first hearing on the matter held two weeks ago.

Eve Tartar's works on exhibit

The work of sculptress Eve Tartar (Mrs. Harper Brown) of Carmel Valley will be exhibited in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association from May 1 through June 5. Included in the show are several collage paintings and three-dimensional constructions, each creating its own aura of vitality and grace.

Eve Tartar's collage paintings are studies in the unifying structure of all life.

Said the artist in a recent interview at her Robles del Rio studio-home, "When we view micro-photography, we begin to see that a blade of grass, a tree, a human hair are all similar, each a mesh reflecting mystic interwoven patterns in vibrant harmonious colors."

Through skillful use of color, form and open space, Eve Tartar excites the imagination of those who view her work, leading them into powerful and intimate contact with her creations.

The three-dimensional wood and paper constructions also on exhibit illustrate Eve Tartar's philosophical approach to the great questions of existence. Her fantastic forms create changes in mood and interpretation as the light around them shifts, invoking new lines and shadows in a pattern which is forever the same and forever different, as life itself. These complex works of art are exquisitely rendered and mounted in glass boxes suitable for hanging.

Eve Tartar studied in New York with Norman Raeben, Robert Motherwell, and some of the Bauhaus Group. She and her husband, Harper Brown, recipient of a Guggenheim Museum grant, established their home in Carmel Valley several years ago.

Her constructions are in important private and museum collections including Young and Rubicam, San Francisco; National Arts Foundation Museum, Illinois; de Saisset Museum, Santa Clara; R. I. E. Foundation, Santa Barbara; and the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art. She has had one-man shows at the Crocker Museum, Sacramento; de Saisset Museum; Carmel Art Association; Tantamount; Adele Bednaz Galleries, Los Angeles; Galerie de Tours, San Francisco; and in New York City at the Rose Fried Gallery, Sosenko, and Ungerland Galleries.

Eve Tartar has lectured on art to various groups on the Peninsula, and this past year participated in the Carmel Art Association Television Series.

The Carmel Art Association is located on Dolores Street, between 5th and 6th Streets. The gallery is open every day from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is cordially invited to view these and other works of art currently on display.

"BAROQUE WAVE," a paper construction in a box frame, is among the powerful and vibrant creations of Eve Tartar currently on exhibit at the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association.

Concert series at Hidden Valley to begin Sunday

The Hidden Valley Music Seminars of Carmel Valley will present the first program of its new concert series, 'Sunday at Six' on May 5. The concert at the theater on Carmel Valley Road will be a benefit recital for the institute of the arts, given by pianist Randal Bare. Bare's program will include the Bach "Partita No. 1 in Bb Major," the Chopin "Ballade No. 1 in G Minor," and the Moussorgsky "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Bare, well-known to Peninsula audiences through his many appearances with the Hidden Valley Orchestra and Chorale, is a faculty member of Hidden Valley, where he is assistant conductor of the concert chorale and teaches theory and keyboard harmony. He has performed as a pianist and conductor throughout the western United States and recently completed his studies in theory and composition at University of the Pacific, where he was conductor of the Beta Pi Chorale and of the Opera Theater, assistant conductor of the A Cappella Choir and Pacific Singers, and guest conductor of the Stockton Symphony Orchestra.

Peninsula reviewers have been unanimous in their praise of Bare's pianism. The Monterey Peninsula Herald has written that Bare, "playing with sensitivity and great skill, created his own orchestral sound and did a magnificent, masterful rendition of the various textures required," while the Carmel Pine Cone wrote that Bare's performance of the Chopin "Piano Concerto No. 1" "Was of unusual freedom, yet one that never lost rhythm, never sounded capricious, never was anything but musical." Other reviewers throughout the state have written of his "incredible finger dexterity" and of his "magnificent display of artistry."

The concert, which begins at 6 p.m. is the first of a series to be presented each Sunday in May the rest of which are devoted to twentieth-century chamber music. Alan and Cynthia Cox, together with Bare, will perform surveys of tonal music in the twentieth century, twelve-tone, serial, and free atonal music, and syntheses of tonal and atonal elements and new directions.

Admission to the 'Sunday at Six' series is $2 per concert, with a series ticket available for $6. Reservations are strongly urged, and can be made by calling 659-3115.

De Grasse watercolors in one-man show

Watercolors by Robert De Grasse will comprise May's one-man show in the Tantamount Theater's Green Room Gallery.

Trained at Chouinard Art School, Robert De Grasse joined the artist staff of the Walt Disney Studios in 1937 and later that of Columbia Studios.

War years in the Navy as boatswain's mate, salvage diver and small craft operator were to be a major influence in the artist's life, with the dual role of painter and cross-Pacific sailor a continuing force providing travel and subject matter.

Since reaching home port in Pacific Grove in 1971, De Grasse has shown locally at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History, the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, and several Peninsula galleries including Matrix, Limber, Graphic Arts and Village Artistry. He has also exhibited in Hawaii, New Hampshire and Ohio, as well as throughout California.

Gallery hours at the Green Room are 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. The gallery is closed Sunday and Monday.

Final week for 'The Owl and the Pussycat'

"The Owl and the Pussycat," the current drama production in the Monterey Peninsula College Standing-Room-Only (SRO) Theatre, is in its third and final week with performances this weekend on Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m.

The MPC Players production features Sid Cato, of Monterey, who recently completed a major role in the college production of "Hair," and Tara Pine Morganrath, of Carmel, also a member of the "Hair" cast. Jane Evans, the female lead in the first SRO production, "LUV," is director.

The drama is about a struggling writer in San Francisco named Felix Sherman, an intellectual, who meets Doris, a sensitive and street-wise prostitute, living in the same block of apartments. A confrontation is inherent in their personalities and evolves when Felix reports Doris' nocturnal activities to the landlord. She is evicted and the stage is set for hilarity.

The SRO Theatre is located in the MPC Theatre building. Reservations are advised and can be made by calling the MPC Theatre Box Office at 375-0455. Admission is $1.50 at the door, $1.25 in advance, and $1 for students and military.

Local dancers win recognition

Dancers from Ballet de Patrice of Carmel Valley won two state championships and a first place at the annual San Jose State Talent Contest recently.

The contest is a state competition for young performers. This year approximately 250 groups participated offering separate performances lasting less than three minutes.

Senior Division State Championship for the Performing Arts was won by seven young dancers from the Monterey Peninsula.

Performing a ballet choreographed especially for them were: Susan Lord, Jane Lord, Tricia Klump, Debbie Mobley, Sandy Harrison, Jennie Douglas, and Laurie Hamilton.

A dance choreographed to the song, "Whistle While You Work" won Ballet de Patrice the Junior Division State Championship for the Performing Arts. Girls participating in this performance were: Diane Steiny, Pam Lord, Cindy Macedo, and Gretha Hon-svald.

Dancing a poised and graceful solo, Ann Macedo won first place, Intermediate Division for the Performing Arts.

French comedy at the Tantamount

"The War of the Buttons" provides much fun and humor this weekend at the Tantamount with the antics and escapades of feuding pre-adolescent boys of two neighboring French villages.

Since buttons are the spoils of the boys' mock battles, the rules of the game leave the captives stripped, to the whooping delight of the victorious.

The Jean Vigo prize-winning comedy plays Friday and Saturday nights at 8:40 p.m. It is a French dialogue film with English subtitles.

DISCOVER THE MONTEREY PENINSULA'S EXCITING WORLD OF DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

THE THUNDERBIRD bookshop spreads its shingled wings in the midst of a cluster of small shops called the Valley Hills Shopping Center. As you drive into the hollow between the rolling green-gold hills of Carmel Valley, the huge Thunderbird insignia is easily seen on the barn-like structure.

The 3.5-mile drive up Carmel Valley Road from Highway 1 is entrancing...the top of each rise presents a different pastoral scene. The valley is sunlit and peaceful with honey-colored cattle grazing in rich pastures, small homes with blossoming orchards and truck gardens, great oaks spreading out in fantastic designs.

Beyond the stretches of green fields, brilliant with wildflowers and alive with butterflies, bees and small birds, the river runs, sunk deep in trees. Behind this feathered line of ash and willow, the gold-green hills rise steeply to form the Santa Lucia mountains. Deep green, thick growths of trees flow down every fold and crevice of the mountains, then dot or cluster on the high mesas.

It is only a short drive to the Thunderbird, but it is a soul-warming one and a great preparation for the atmosphere of the bookshop-restaurant. There is a warm fireplace for cool days, the sunny patio with tables and umbrellas for warm days, and 50,000 books! You'll find plenty of browsing room, with many tables and chairs to read excerpts from interesting books while you drink your coffee, beer or wine, have lunch or dinner. The atmosphere is restful with "country" informality and friendliness.

John and May Woodruff found just the right setting for their unique combination of enterprises. In my estimation, no other place could be more ideal. John and May lived for 20 years in Japan and the Philippines. They brought back a fabulous collection of Oriental art, sculpture, chests and artifacts. The collection is shown by appointment only.

They take interest in local affairs, and have monthly art shows of local artists. The Thunderbird is the meeting place of local writers, authors and literary groups. May is now vacationing in Europe with their daughter, Kristin. They also have two sons. One is at Stanford and the youngest is at York School.

IN THE EVENING, Harrison Bidwell (Bid) is your host. He calls himself "the night bird." He is charming and interesting to talk with. He has written articles of his adventures in Africa and other parts of the world. For several years he lived on his own boat, sailing to interesting, out-of-the-way places.

Most of the time his only "crew" was his dog and cat. His stories have been published in True, Argosy and the London News. At present, he lives on 11 acres in Carmel Valley. There, he says, he has peace, quiet and room for his animals.

Lunch at the Thunderbird is fun and satisfying, with common sense prices—heartly beef soup, hot-pastrami, rare roast beef and other gourmet sandwiches. There is draught beer, imported and California wines, and always fresh-made coffee.

By LUCY SMITHSON

GALLOPING OVER the countryside is a heckuva lot of fun. "Over the river and through the woods" doesn't need grandmother's house for a destination. "Over the fields we go laughing all the way" is just as much fun without the snow and sleigh.

Belting along through the bushes is so much fun that humans have had to invent excuses to do it frequently. Steeplechasing, for instance, used to be a cross-country race taking the shortest line possible towards the sight of a real church steeple miles away.

Little boys--and often little girls--dream of becoming cowboys in order to ride the open range. Scraping fertilizer out of a feedlot with a 'dozer is probably not featured in their visions.

The use of hounds for hunting goes back to prehistoric times. In the late 17th century rich Europeans made the noble discovery that a pack of hounds chasing a fox run just about as fast as a horse can gallop. Following the hounds on horseback had all the excitement of a race, the suspense of mystery--which way'd they go?--the challenge of the unforeseen (OOPS!) and the thrill of victory (bloody trophies). Someone once described foxhunting as "the unspeakable in pursuit of the inedible," but participants called it sport.

Foxhunting is growing in popularity even today. There are 140 registered and recognized hunts of the Masters of Foxhounds Association in Canada and the United States, and very many of them have been organized in the years following the second World War. There are over 300 foxhunts in the small area of Britain despite militant opposition by persons opposed to "blood sports."

What has kept foxhunting popular is the tremendous joy of barreling along on horseback with the free wind in your face. Many hunts have substituted a "drag" for the hounds to follow instead of a fox. If the hunt landscape is not endowed with natural obstacles, the hunt committee will construct facsimiles and riders will go out of their way to jump over them.

ANOTHER SPORT organized for the glory of galloping is polo, invented in China more than 2,000 years ago. The British brought the game west from India about 100 years ago. It has caught on with variations, including "cowboy polo" and "palmetto polo," as well as the regular full-size gutbusting game.

The Monterey Peninsula polo players hosted some pretty good polo of the latter variety last weekend. The National Interscholastic Polo Championship was played at Carmel Valley Riding Center and Pebble Beach Equestrian Center using polo ponies from those two riding schools. A team from Midland Texas won and Robert Louis Stevenson School of Pebble Beach was second.

The horse sport which today is growing most rapidly in popularity is Combined Training. Combined Training has its roots in the speed and endurance tests for European cavalry horses. When modern showjumping, invented by Captain Caprilli of Italy in the first decade of this century, was combined with the endurance phase, an appealing competition for military horses evolved. The first Olympic Three-Day Event was held in 1912, and until 1948, only military riders could compete.

When European civilians were allowed in, the Duke of Beaufort offered his country estate at Badminton, England as the site of an annual Three Day Event in the spring. This grueling event took place last weekend and was won by Captain Mark Phillips on a horse named "Columbus." His wife, Princess Anne, placed fourth.

Receipts from paid admission to the Badminton Three-Day Event and to a similar three-day event at Burghley in the autumn now finance most of the extensive operations of the British Horse Society, including many other horse competitions and a large network of pony clubs for young people.

Combined Training events are held in every European country, and besides attracting a great many live spectators, they have generated huge demand among television viewers generating all the excitement of great sports events.

During the 1950's the U.S. Equestrian Team organized a number of one-day events--scaled down Combined Training competitions. Dick Collins, manager of Pebble Beach Equestrian Center, was instrumental in creating interest in Combined Training on the West Coast with the annual Pebble Beach 3-Day Event. Some of the most beautiful and challenging cross country jumps in the world are hidden in the Del Monte Forest.

The U.S. Combined Training Association was organized in 1959 after the Chicago Pan-American games, and last year held its first international event in Massachusetts.

A good opportunity to watch a three-day event will be provided this weekend, when a Combined Training competition will be held in conjunction with the annual Pebble Beach Spring Hunter Trials. Mrs. Jay Foss of Portola Valley will judge hunters and John Paillard of Pebble Beach will judge the Combined Training Event.

The three-day begins Friday morning with dressage tests. Saturday the horses will be sent out cross country over a variety of terrifying and - or tricky obstacles. Sunday same horses will be asked to compete over jumps in the show ring just to demonstrate they are still capable of doing so after the strenuous test on Saturday.

Entering the weekend's competition from Carmel Valley will be Eileen Forzani (whose parents have operated Hidden Hills Stables for many years), Brenda Nuckton, Kathie Swanston, Toni Venza and Ellen Tyler. Carmel riders will be Col. Andy McFarland, Ann Poitrus, Betty Nason, Derek Di Grazia, Mrs. Lori Di Grazia, and Lisa Burnett. Riders from

MORE OAKS & CACTI

Residents have stored a wealth of memories over the years of Center activities -- Santa-Fly-Ins, Halloween Carnivals, dances, parties, barbecues and meetings. The hall, in constant use, fills many needs.

Champagn Silent Auction Chairman, Lee Mink and fellow board members urge you to support the event, which in turn supports your Center. Tickets are available from board members or may be purchased at the door.

M.P.V.S. Home & Garden Tour

Three distinctive homes and ten outstanding gardens will be featured on the 21st annual Home and Garden Tour sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Volunteers Services, Wednesday, May 8. There will be five gardens in Carmel and five in Pebble Beach, ending with tea at the home of Mrs. Hyatt Robert Von Dehn, located on Stillwater Cove in Pebble Beach.

This year's tour will benefit the Visiting Nurse Association, one of more than 40 non-profit organizations which M.P.V.S. has supported since 1945 through a variety of fund-raising projects and through its Thrift Shop in Seaside.

The tour begins at 10 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. (Mrs. von Dehn's home will not open until 2 p.m.) A large route map and tour brochure will be available at all 17 Mile Drive gates and at any garden on the day of the tour. Gardens will open on the day of the tour and restroom facilities will be available. Walking shoes are suggested.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased at all Pebble Beach gates (gate fee is waived for ticket purchasers) at N.B. Florist in Carmel and at the Fitzgerald Gallery in Pacific Grove. For tickets or information, call Ticket Chairman Mrs. Carl Wester, 375-5455; Tour Chairman Mrs. Howard Healey, 624-8042; or Co-Chairman Mrs. Edward Ellies, 625-1811.

'Great Barter' this weekend

Bargain hunters, art lovers and dedicated collectors will be presented with a full array of items for sale when the fun fund-raising Jesters sponsor the first "Great Barter" for the benefit of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art on May 3, 4, and 5.

The Barter will include everything from a 1959 XK 150 Jaguar to a small Lalique vase.

A Monterey collector will offer for sale over 80 pieces of pewter one dated 1674, plus others bearing porcupine and weasel designs. Two-panel screens, inlaid with ivory and bone with black lacquer, will be available, along with numerous other Oriental objects d'art, including a Chinese chest inlaid with ivory and soapstone.

The Great Barter will be held at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific Street, Monterey from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on May 3 & 4, and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday May 5. Admission charge is $1. and BankAmericard and Master Charge will be accepted.

Pirates Parade May 11

"Ship Wreck Island," the swashbuckling theme selected for the Tularcitos Parents Club sponsored Carnival on Saturday, May 11, will get off to an exciting start with a parade which will wind its way through the Village at 11:30 a.m. Led by the Fort Ord Band, the line of march includes to date: a Coast Guard float, representatives of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department; a Navy Color Guard; a Trail & Saddle Club mounted unit; Monterey Peninsula Twirlers; Valley Youth Groups; a Monterey County Sheriff's Posse; the Model A Car Club; Fort Ord "Varmint" Mini-Bikes; a Jack-In-the-Box clown, The Half Notes and many others. Parade Chairman Lee Mink is awaiting confirmation from the notorious Captain Kidd, Long John Silver and other sea faring celebrities!

Flower Show on Saturday & Sunday

Remember that competitive entries are open to all amateur gardeners -- adult and junior -- everyone is invited to compete in the 14th annual Flower Show to be sponsored this weekend by the Carmel Valley Garden Association.

"The Age of Aquarius" is the theme of the two-day show open for viewing from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday at Tularcitos Multipurpose Room.

Making up the show committee are Harry Ball, chairman; Harold Maynard, vice chairman; Miss Mary Martin, show secretary; Mrs. Carl Ford, decorations; Mrs. Stan Roberts, staging; Mrs. Paul Anthony, prizes; and Mrs. David Taylor, judges and clerks.

In charge of registrations is Mrs. William Wood; of hospitality Richard Klingensmith; guard and dismantling, John D. Jernegan; publicity, Mrs. Mildren Hattan.

Exhibit Chairmen are: potted plants, Mrs. Fred Scott; cut flowers, Mrs. William Parham; arrangements, Mrs. Harold Maynard; junior exhibits, Mrs. Richard Klingensmith; and plant cutting and bouquet sales, Burr Robbins.

OUR GIFT to you in fabulous sun country -- Carmel Valley close to Village and shopping. Picture this on a beautiful view-laden 1 acre private setting. 5, that's right, 5 large bedrooms, 3 baths, massive living room and stone fireplace and a great family room, highlight other features such as separate laundry room, adobe and paneled interior enclosed by much sought after adobe construction. There is room for pool and horse. The pool house is already in. Naturally, wall-to-wall carpets, drapes and other kitchen extras are included. In this area, we don't even believe it! You'd say we were crazy if we told you $86,500. Doubtful? See it! You'll agree.

TAKE A LOOK! The better Hatton Fields area. 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Newly painted inside and out. Beautifully maintained patio and grounds. How can it last at $65,000!
